Views of a War Democrat. WHAT HE THINKS OF THE PAL-MER TICKET.

Speech of Major E. A. Calkins, of the Bd Wisconsin Cavalry, at the Union Meeting held in the Chy Hall, at Mad-ison, Saturday Evening, Oct. 10. Mr. President, and my very dear old Neigh-

After nearly two years' absence, it gives me inexpressible pleasure to meet you again. Some people think there are reasons why military men should not mingle in political discussions at home; but I notice that, generally, they are those people whose views receive little aid and comfort from such discussions, and that may account for it, in a great measure. At any rate, as an old citizen of Wisconsin, I claim the right to say something in the crisis which is to decide the position of Wisconsin in this great struggle for the defense of the government. If I speak of myself more than is common, or may appear in good taste, it is not egotism, nor because I think myself of more account than other people, but simply because my own experience is of the most convenient illustration of principle.

A WAR DEMOURAT DISAPPOINTED. organization and power-the democratic party-that I am stricken with astonishment that is something like a terror, to find ts wonderful mechanism, "Like *weet bells jungled out of inn ." its wheels and pinious reversed; its powers perverted to danger and to evil, and all its capacities for patriotic usefulness convulsed saical Pharisees, with the broadest phylacteries and the longest prayers, I ministered at the democratic alter. I never dodged an issue. I never bolted a ticket. I never came a disturbing issue in politice, I agreed with so many others, that this was a government made for white men; that the interests and destiny of the black race ought when we considered what was best for the raised their wicked hands and struck a malignant and murderous blow at the government, and when they persisted in their gielements of their weakness, all the sinews of our strength, should be used to subdue and find this democratic party, what there and mercy may use, in the direct extremity, is left of it, in a position that you cannot ander the impulsive dictates of undying BAILEY'S BUUT & SHOE STORE tell exactly whether its sympathics are with love and devotion. [Renewed applause.] OUGHT SOLDIERS TO VOTE. But this they say they are going to prohibit. Enlisting in the army and putting on uniform, they say, disfranchises the citizen. God blers me l Because a man shall have no voice in the counsell of the it; and they detest you a little more corgovernment. Because he may be killed dially for sneaking around and asking it, men, he shall be deprived to day of a freeman's rights. Because he has left home and its comforts, has ruptured socialties and abandoned the endearments of domestic charities, to face danger and death, to stand guard and fight battles, to endure the hardships of his camp, the toils of the distant march, he is to be ejected from your caucuses, driven from the polls, de nied the rights which the slink, the coward and the traitor enjoy, and be black-guarded out of his boots if he opens his mouth for principles that he has shed his friends, to be "the noblest act of his life." We fellows do not doubt that; but, we he had "the buny hole!" [Loud laughter.] wonder, if this was the noblest part of his And his proposition to get his barrel "as life, what the balance must have been, it was," (renewed laughter,) was about as (Laughter and applause.) We are of opin-somewise as this idea to have the Union as voting at all, as "the noblest act of his life." (Renewed applause.) THE CONSTITUTION AS IT IS. "The constition as it is, and the Union as it was." That is the war cry of a faction. What does this mean? Will comebody tell me the signification of that claptrap? If it means that we want no amer dments to the Constitution; that we are satisfied with it, and that it needs no cobbling, they are not going to quarrel with me. It is a good thing. I do not think that an improvement could be suggested. It was devised by wise and patriotic connsels. If they mean that we will sustain it at all bezards; that we will fight for it and die for it-yes, more, that we will live by it and for it, then they are not going to quarrel with me either. If they mean that it is a fair charter of liberty and law; that it is an existing form and pattern of free government; that our oaths to it are sacred and binding obligations; is the direction in which the Vallandigham then they agree with me too. And I think party and the Palmer party are dritting James May Start Link 1823 berthautt all the more of it, since the Republicans that is the cause for greatest alarm. Op-that exhales in a night, and is withered by a frost. Because it does not provide the calibro of Parott gans, therefore you do not, in my opinion, violate it by firing a ten inch shell at a rebel fort. I do not think that it is violated because, in this war, we have to do many things which it does not expressly permit. The Constitution was not made to govern a campaign in a civil war.

War has its own laws. They are supreme all things; avil tongues may load me with War has its own laws. They are supreme

To its old print out, bundling her in a blanket, and throw-ciples I still adhere. When slavery be-ing her on the ground to extinguish the blaze, I should say, "See that excerable cuss! he is sucking his grandmother." [Laughter and applause.] While for a murderous wretch, who had got his grandnot to weigh as the fine dust in the balance | mother to make her will in his favor, and had then cut her throat, and minece her progress, the greatness and the good of our | body into small pieces, and buried them in people; and that any guaranty which might | a dung heap, I should have no word of blame be demanded for the security of slavery or detestation. Against the rebellion, they should be fully granted. And I do not have nothing to say. Against the means know that I have changed much. But used to crush the rebellion, they are rewhen, without sin or provocation, those to dundant in invective. We are fighting to whom we had yielded and compromised all, preserve the constitution. Against those who, with murderous intent and bloody hands, assailed it, we levied and will wage exterminating war. Will you have a Union with those with whom you crossed bayonets yesterday? They invoked this war to destroy the Union. Their hands are red with the blood of half a million lives. They won't have a Union as it is lighting to save the government, he was, or any other Union, if they can help co-morrow, in defending the rights of free. than they do any body else. The old Union would have answered, if these folks had let it alone. [Applause.]

I would not have tried to destroy it. I would have been satisfied to have endured is with all its imperfections and all the sacrifices that it required to its jealousies, to sectional rivalry, to local disaffections, to jarring interests, to incompatible institutions-with all its concessions to their fours, their arrogance, their tyranny. But they broke it. By them the offense came. To seek now to restore the "Union as it was," is like the man who went into a cooper shop to get a barrel repaired, saying he had a part of it. Views of a War Democrat. WHAT HE THINKS OF THE PAL-MER TICKET.

Mr. President, and my very dear old Neighme inexpressible pleasure to meet you again. Some people think there are reasons why military men should not mingle in political discussions at home; but I notice that, generally, they are those people whose views receive little aid and comfort from such discussions, and that may account for it, in a great measure. At any rate, as an old citizen of Wisconsin, I claim the right to say something in the crisis which is to decide the position of Wisconsin in this great struggle for the defense of the government. If I speak of myself the government. If I speak of myself able. [Applause.] But, they say, war more than is common, or may appear in good taste, it is not exposism, nor because I measures are not necessary in loyal states. good taste, it is not egotism, nor because I think myself of more account than other people, but simply because my own experience is of the most convenient illustra-

A WAR DEMOCRAT DISAPPOINTED. I have been so long a democrat—I have so long been a part of that machine of rare. organization and power-the democratic party-that I am stricken with astonishment that is something like a terror, to find on my return from a prolonged absence, patriotic, but not well posted. Test these its wonderful mechanism,

"Like sweet bells jaugled out of tune;" its wheels and pinious reversed; its powers perverted to danger and to evil, and all its expecities for patriotic usefulness convelsed and destroyed. I was a democrat long and faithfully. The democratic platform was the law by which I lived, and the gospel under which I served. Of the most pharisaical Pharisees, with the broadest phylacteries and the longest prayers, I ministered at the democratic after. I never dodged an issue. I never bolted a ticket. I never wavered; never doubted. To its old prin-ciples I still adhere. When slavery became a disturbing issue in politics, I agreed with so many others, that this was a gov-ernment made for white men; that the interests and destiny of the black race ought not to weigh as the fine dust in the balance when we considered what was best for the progress, the greatness and the good of our people; and that any guaranty which might be demanded for the security of slavery should be fully granted. And I do not know that I have changed much. But when, without sin or provocation, those to whom we had yielded and compromised all, raised their wicked hands and struck a malignant and murderous blow at the government, and when they persisted in their gi-gantic and patricidal crime, I said and say now, that every means and measure, all the elements of their weakness, all the sinews of our strength, should be used to subdue and conquer them. [Applause.] I went to the war; and after two years, I return and find this democratic party, what there is left of it, in a position that you cannot tell exactly whether its sympathics are with the revolted south or the loyal north; and egitated by about the same emotions when contemplating the result at Vicksburg as when contemplating the result of Chicka- sovereign states, the same in interests, the

with them. I have said elsewhere, and I sy thing that the very efforts to preserve it are destroying it. It is not like-"The glory in the grass, the splender of the flower." that exhales in a night, and is withered by a frost. Because it does not provide the calibro of Parott gans, therefore you do not, in my opinion, violate it by firing a ten-inch shell at a rebel fort. I do not think that it is violated because, in this war, we have to do many things which it does not expressly permit. The Constitution was not made to govern a campaign in a civil war. War has its own laws. They are supreme and indisputable. They are not contrary made for peace. In war, the necessity of a war measure is the test of its constitutionality-if that term is applicable. What is necessary is right; and the more urgent the necessity, and desperate the crisis, so The people of Ohio, without distinction of party, thought differently when John Morgan made his horse stealing trip through that state. If Gen. Beauregard should seek refuge in Massachusetts, would you have him arrested on a complaint before a police justice, admitted to bail, and returned to Louisiana for trial? Nonzense! It is all nouscuse. These are but the complaints of a faction striving for power-the falsehoods to headwish people that are very men by facis. Have they complained half so loudly of Jeff. Davis as they have of Lincoln? [Applause.] Did you ever hear them say that the rebellion itself was unconstitutional. [Applause.] Did they ev er argue to you that the assassination by armed traitors of your neighbors, your friends, your near and dear relatives, was contrary to "the constitution as it is." Their sincerity may be judged by their acts. They talk about this war as I should, if, while your grand mother's clothes were on fire, and while you were whipping the fire out, bundling ber in a blanket, and throwout, bunding her in a blanket, and throwing her on the ground to extinguish the blaze, I should say, "See that excerable cuss! he is striking his graudmother."

[Laughter and applause.] While for a murderous wretch, who had got his grandmother to make her will in his favor, and had then cut her throat, and minced her body into small pieces, and having them; body into small pieces, and buried them in a dung heap, I should have no word of blame or detestation. Against the rebellion, they have nothing to say. Against the means used to crush the rebellion, they are redundant in invective. We are fighting to preserve the constitution. Against those who, with murderous intent and bloody hands, assailed it, we levied and will wage exterminating war. [Applause.] We will protect it; we will deteat the efforts to destroy it. To revert to the grandmother again, we may, in the attempt, be obliged to tumble the old-lady about a little roughly; [laughter,] but it will be with such roughness only as the hands of tenderness under the impulsive dictates of undying love and devotion. - [Applause.] THE UNION AS IT WAS. And I am in favor of the Union as it was, if, by that, they mean a Union of free and USEFUL GOODS! mauga. This is not my democracy. [Ap same in institutions; their laws, their people as the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; their laws, their people is the role of Jacob same in institutions; the role of Jacob same in institutions in the rol -treading the same pathway to greatness. thrilled by the same watchful, constant and unwavering adhesion to the government.

[Applause.] But as for a Union with Jeff. Dayis and Benjamin in it again, I beg to be excused. With what will you have the Union as it was? Will you have a Union with those with whom you crossed bayonets But this they say they are going to pro-bibit. Ealisting in the army and putting on uniform, they say, disfranchises the citizen. God bless me! Because a man was, or any other Union, if they can help shall have no voice in the counsell of the it; and they detest you a little more corgovernment. Because he may be killed dially for sneaking around and asking it, to morrow, in defending the rights of free, than they do any, body else. The old Union would have answered, if these folks had

I would have been satisfied to have endured is with all its imperfections and all the sacrifices that it required to its jealousies, the hardships of his camp, the toils of the to sectional rivalry, to local disaffections, to jarring interests, to incompatible insti tutions-with all its concessions to their fears, their arrogance, their tyranny. But they broke it. By them the offense came. To seek now to restore the "Union as it month for principles that he has, shed his was," is like the man who went into a coop blood to defend. (Applause.) And vo- er shop to get a barrel repaired, saying he ting for this is claimed by Mr. Palmer's had a part of it. [Loud laughter.] wonder, if this was the noblest part of his And his proposition to get his barrel "as it was," (renewed laughter,) was about as someble as this idea to have the Union as it was, the way the phrase is understood. Between us and such a Union as it was, barriers have been orected high as the hopes of freedom, and strong as the hate amolie of gunpowder, and after "our of slavery. (Lond applause.) But through soutdern brethren" have fired a few bull this bloody mist of war, and beyond the lets at us. At any rate we do not see clouds that obscure it, we can see a Union of American states, acrong in unity, vigorous in the strength created by unity, in-separably bound together by the constitution which our fathers made and which is the charter of its freedom; and the foot-step of no slave pollutes its soil; (applause) and against it no traitor will dare rebel, for it is protected by the love of its people, and by the power of its defenses; and its pathway to greatness and glory is broad before it, and on its future there rests the penumbra of no colipse, nor the shadow of any night of darkness, forever. Tried by unbounded prosperity, tried by the screet adversily—through the very valley of the shadow of death—each fireside a devolation, each home a house of mourning-through bitter waters and over desert solitudes, our people will emerge to the perfect brightness of their new glory; and the full proportions of their perpetual greatness.-

The political battle has been fought and won. Thank God for these great and crowning victories of the loyal people of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa. This grand result buries out of sight the stinking carcass of copperheadism, the only evil power we had to fear in conquering the rabellion. The cowardly "fire in the rear" upon our brave soldiers will cease. They need no longer look back with apprehension while the rebel for attacks them in front. The great hearted, patriotic people have deereed that the war shall go on, until every rebel shall do homage to the flag of the nation. Let all enemies of the Republic, whether skulking in our own borders, or waiting and watching in foreign lands, take

Now, friends of the Badger State, we must contribute our quota to this mighty verdict. # First District.

The republicans of the first district are in the field with first class nominations. THOMAS EARLE, of Porter, for the assembly, and DANIEL JOHNSON, of Union, for the county board, are the right men for any place requiring fidelity, competence, and a prompt discharge of public duties. Let the first district, lead off by the glorious town of Union, and backed by her plucky and true associates, pile up a Lincoln majority for the state and the Union.

Third District Supervisor,

S. S. Northrop, of the town of Clinton. has been nominated for supervisor in the third district. This is an excellent nomi-B member of the old county board, where L. Carpenter 7. he held a leading and influential position. Thoroughly conversant with the business coming before the board, acquainted (with all the interests of the county, and thoroughly qualified, he will make a useful and reliable member of the board.

THE DUTY OF LOYAL MER.

We should insult the intelligence and patriotism of our readers if we attempted a mere partisan appeal in reference to the coming election for the accomplishment of a merely partisan victory. It is true best interests of the country are involved supervisor. in the defeat or success of the republican organization at the coming election, as the republican party is the only organization now existing through which the support required by the government can be rendered. But we know we are actuated by a higher motive than a desire for a mere partisan victory when we desire the success of the candidates placed in nomination by the republican Union party. The particular point we intend to bring out is the NE-CESSITY FOR UNITED ACTION AND A FULL VOTE. Every dictate of patriotism and every impulse of a true heart require that THE VOTE OF EVERY LOYAL MAN SHOULD BE POLLED. To this end all the approved machinery of a party organisation is necessary. Poll lists should be made, meetings should be held, teams should be employed on election day, and a thorough canvass made of every town and neighborhood. Will not the loyal men, especially of Rock county, engage in this work AT ONCE, onergetically, heartily, enthusiastically? Let the glorious news from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Indiana inspire every loyal heart. Consider the immense interests at stake, and let DUTY and PATRIOTISM supply the motive for action. Remissness, indifference or neglect IS A CRIME for which there is no palliation, and will be followed by the most disastrous results. Less than three weeks now intervene between the election, and DELAY will be scarcely less

First Assembly District Convention.

The delegates chosen at the Union cauonses of the several towns composing the lst assembly district of the county of Rock, met in convention at the Ball Tavern in said district on the 10th day of October, 1863, at 1 o'clock P. M., pursuant to publie notice, for the purpose of nominating that we deeply realise the truth that the candidates for the assembly and for district but indicate the election of Col. Stone. The convention was called to order by > Hon. Z. P. Burdick, and on motion Hon. J. Corey was chosen chairman, and D. L. Mills, secretary. On motion, it was resolved that a committee of three be appointed to examine and report upon the credentials of dele> gates. The chair appointed Messrs. Stebbins, Burdick and Doclittle said committee. The committee reported that the following named delegates are entitled to seats in the convention, viz.:

Union-8. Simpkins, O. Viele, A. Smith and D. L. Mills.

Porter-H. Stebbins, O. W. Gilman and E. F. Sayre.

Center-J. Corey, J. Parmley and W. A. Webster. Janesville-Z. P. Burdick, A. W. Pope and D. Strunk. Magnolia-J. Doolittle, J. R. Whitney and E. N. Witherell.

All of said delegates were present and answered to their names except Mr. Whitney of Magnolia, and on motion it was resolved that the delegates present from Magnolia be authorized to cast the full vote of said town.

On motion the convention proceeded to ballot for candidate for the assembly, which resulted as follows: Informal Ballot-Thomas Earle of Por-

SHELLING-HOW THE MISSILES ARE Porter and Spring Valley, and the city of Dongen,-A correspondent, writing from Morris Island to the Christian Advocate and Journal, says:

At night we can see the path of a shell through all its journey, lighted as it is by the burning fuse. When the range is two miles, the track of a shell from a mortar describes very near half the arc of a circle. On leaving the mortar it gracefully moves nearly or quite a mile above the earth, and then glides along for a moment, apparently in a horizontal line; but quickly you perceive that the little fiery orb is on the home stretch, describing the other segment of a line not quite as much as a shell from a mortar. But in passing over this space considerable time is required. The report travels much faster than the shot. A shell from a mortar will make a distance of two miles in about thirty seconds, and from a Parrott gun in about half that time. The flash of a gun at night, and the white smoke by day, indicate the moment of discharge, and fifteen or twenty seconds give abundance of time to find cover in a splinter-proof, behind a trench, or something else. It is wise and soldierly to do so, but many pay no attention to those hissing, screaming, flying, in the day time, if shot from a gen, invisible devils, except to crack jokes at their expense; or, occasionally one pays his life for his foolhardiness.

The Victories at the Ballot Box.

The political battle has been fought and won. Thank God for these great and crowning victories of the loyal people of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa. This grand result buries out of sight the stinking carcass of copperheadism, the only evil power we had to fear in conquering the rebellion. The cowardly "fire in the rear" upon our brave soldiers will cease. They need no longer look back with apprehension while the rebel foe attacks them in front. The great hearted, patriotic people have decreed that the war shall go on, until every rebel shall do homage to the flag of the nation. Let all enemies of the Republic. whether skulking in our own borders, or waiting and watching in foreign lands, take notice and beware. Now, friends of the Badger State, we must contribute our quota to this mighty verdict. Until the third of November we must work, if we would not be left behind in the race of honor and glory, so proudly trod by our brethren of other states. Let it not be said that we faltered where others led the way for the salvation of our native

First District.

The republicans of the first district are in the field with first class nominations. THOMAS EARLE, of Porter, for the assembly, and Daniel Johnson, of Union, for the county board, are the right men for any place requiring fidelity, competence, and a prompt discharge of public duties. Let the first district, lead off by the glorious town of Union, and backed by her plucky and true associates, pile up a Lincoln majority for the state and the Union.

Third District Supervisor.

S. S. Northrop, of the town of Clinton, has been nominated for supervisor in the third district. This is an excellent nomination. Mr. Northrop has been repeatedly a member of the old county board, where L. Carpenter 7. he held a leading and influential position. Thoroughly conversant with the business coming before the board, acquainted with all the interests of the county, and thoroughly qualified, he will make a useful and reliable member of the board.

THE DUTY OF LOYAL MEK. We should insult the intelligence and potriotism of our readers if we attempted a lat assembly district of the county of Rock, mere partisan appeal in reference to the met in convention at the Ball Tavern in coming election for the accomplishment of a merely partisan victory. It is true that we deeply realise the truth that the candidates for the assembly and for district best interests of the country are involved supervisor. in the defeat or success of the republican organization at the coming election, as the republican party is the only organization now existing through which the support required by the government can be rendered. But we know we are actuated by a higher motive than a desire for a mere partisan victory when we desire the success of the candidates placed in nomination by the republican Union party. The particular point we intend to bring out is the NE-CESSITY FOR UNITED ACTION AND A FULL VOTE. Every dictate of patriotism and every impulse of a true heart re-REPUBLICAN UNION NOMINATIONS quire that THE VOTE OF EVERY LOYAL MAN SHOULD BE POLLED. To this end all the approved machinery of a party organisation is necessary. Poli lists should be made; meetings should be held, teams should be employed on election day, and a thorough canvass made of every town and neighborhood. Will not the loyal man, especially of Rock county, engage in this work AT ONCE, onergetically, heartily, enthusiastically? Let the glorious news from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Indiana inspire every loyal heart. Consider the immonse interests at stake, and let DUTY and PATRIOTISM supply the motive for action. SHELLING-HOW THE MISSILES ABE Dongen.-A correspondent, writing from Morris Island to the Christian Advocate and Journal, save:

At night we can see the path of a shell towns and wards present were authorized through all its journey, lighted as it is by the burning fues. When the range is two miles, the track of a shell from a mortar describes very near half the arc of a circle. On leaving the mortar it gracefully moves nearly or quite a mile above the earth, and then glides along for a moment, apparently in a horizontal line; but quickly you perceive that the little fiery orb is on the home stretch, describing the other segment of a circle. A shell from a rifled Pariott gun, in going 21 miles, deviates from a straight line not quite as much as a shell from a mortar. But in passing over this space considerable time is required. The report travels much faster than the shot. A shell from a mortar will make a distance of two miles in about thirty seconds, and from a Parrott gun in about half that time. The flash of a gun at night, and the white smoke by day, indicate the moment of discharge, and fifteen or twenty accords give abundance of time to find cover in a splinter-proof, behind a trench, or something else. It is wise and soldierly to do so, but many pay no attention to those hissing,

Celebration To-night.

From present appearances, there will be a general impromptu celebration to night of the glorious victories in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Indiana. There seems to be no specific arrangements, but everybody, except the copperheads, is full of celebration. A large number of our citizens have already expressed their determination to illumi nate their business places and dwellings, and we hope the building of every loyal man will blaze in a profusion of light. Hon. Timothy O. Howe.

Messrs. Editors :- Will you please to give notice that Senator Howe will address the people of Janesville, on the exigency of the times, forced upon us by traitors and copperheads, on Thursday evening, Oct. 22d inst. There will be no mistake this time as I have a letter from Mr. Howe himself, assuring me that he will be here at Mr. Howe is a Union man, not after the style and pattern of Benedict Arnold, John C. Calhoun, Vallandigham, Jeff. Davis and George B. Smith; but after that of the Adamses, the Jackson, the Wrights, the Sumners, and the believers with the patriots of the American revolution, that traitors inside of our lines are as guilty as those outside of them, and should be dealt with accordingly. Let the loyal people of Janesville do honor to themselves by coming out J. M. BURGESS, President Union Club.

Celebration To-night.

From present appearances, there will be a general impromptu celebration to night of the glorious victories in Ohio, Penusylvania, Iowa and Indiana. There seems to be no specific arrangements, but everybody, except the copperheads, is full of celebration. A large number of our citizens have already expressed their determination to illuminate their business places and dwellings, and we hope the building of every loyal man will blaze in a profusion of light. Hon. Timothy O. Howe.

Mesers. Editors :- Will you please to give notice that Senator Howe will address the people of Janesville, on the exigency of the times, forced upon us by traitors and copperheads, on Thursday evening, Oct. 22d inst. There will be no mistake this time as I have a letter from Mr. Howe himthat time.

Mr. Howe is a Union man, not after the style and pattern of Benedict Arnold, John C. Calhoun, Vallandigham, Jeff. Davis and George B. Smith; but after that of the Adamses, the Jackson, the Wrights, the Sumners, and the believers with the patriots of the American revolution, that traitors inside of our lines are as guilty as those outside of them, and should be dealt with accordingly. Let the loyal people of Janes ville do honor to themselves by coming out J. M. BURGESS, en masse. President Union Club.
